Excerpt: . . . 9 The BEP began implementing its strategic plan that will significantly change its currency manufacturing process; and over the next few years, the BEP will continue to retool and retrofit its production by purchasing new equipment that will allow the agency to migrate to a higher capacity and capability manufacturing environment. Updating this equipment is essential. The aging manufacturing equipment at the BEP no longer meets the performance requirements demanded in today's dynamic currency manufacturing environment. The new equipment will provide a rapid response and the flexibility, productivity, and technology necessary to support the manufacture of the increasingly complex currency designs, including an array of possible features for the blind and visually impaired. In May of this year, the BEP posted a notice in the Federal Register to announce recommendations that it intends to propose to the Secretary of the Treasury for moving forward and providing meaningful access to the blind and visually impaired to denominate currency. The BEP expects very shortly to make recommendations to Secretary Geithner as to the best possible manner to provide that meaningful access. Our recommendations currently consist of raised tactile features; large, high-contrast numerals; and a supplemental currency reader program. Additionally, the BEP is continuing its efforts to explore emerging technological solutions, such as the development of software to enable blind and visually-impaired individuals to denominate currency. Other initiatives on the way at the BEP include employee training, product quality, cost reduction, and a modernization of our technology. By leveraging efficiencies in new innovations, the BEP recognized that we were overstaffed in certain positions. We requested and were granted permission for...
