A large measure of this success was due to Sergeant Charles I. Friedberg who managed the show and whipped it into shape. Early in March the Division was concentrated in the fields north of Ancy-le-Franc for an inspection and review in honor of the Commander-in-Chief, General John J. Pershing. He personally inspected Company F, asked several of the men questions, and congratulated the company commander on the stalwart and soldierly appearance of the company. His parting remark was A very fine company. During the latter part of March the weather cleared up sufficiently to allow some real baseball practice and it was at this time that we found we had a real team that wouldnt take favors from any one. It was not until later, however, that they really came into their own. March 20th is a memorable day. At nine in the morning the entire regiment assembled on our drill field to witness the Athletic and Military Meet. Our representatives walked off with our full share of honors. At noon everything was called off for a couple of hours to enable everyone to get his share of the eats. For two days previous trenches had been dug and fires laid in preparation for what was to be the largest barbacue seen in that section of France, so when mess call sounded there was a general stampede in the direction of the chow line. After everyone had eaten all that he felt...
